Politecnico also accepts certificates issued by Embassies, Italian Cultural Institutes, universities and Centri Provinciali per l'Istruzione degli Adulti (CPIA), upon completion of Italian language courses with a final exam (attendance certificates are not accepted). Italian language certificates must include the CEFR level of the course.

You can be exempted from having the Italian language certificate if:

- you are an Italian citizen resident in Italy
- upon enrolment you provide a stamped declaration/certificate written on official letter headed paper, which certifies that:

Certificates accepted or exemptions in substitution for PLIDA at Politecnico di Torino

Table adopted by the CLA Academic Coordinator – in force since 1/10/2018

- you attended at least one school year at a high school in which the medium of instruction is Italian. In this case the school must issue a certificate stating that the medium of instruction is Italian;
- you have an Italian qualification (licenza elementare, licenza media, diploma di maturità or higher qualification)
- you have one of the qualifications listed in Annex 2 to the “Procedures for entry, residence and enrolment of foreign/international students for higher education courses in Italy during the 2018-2019 academic year – agreed upon with the Ministries of Foreign Affairs, of International Cooperation, and of the Interior” which indicates that the specific Italian language requirements are met.
- you passed an AP, A-level or Advanced Higher Italian language course (for US, British or Scottish qualifications respectively). These levels are accepted in substitution for the Italian Language certificate (B1 level).

Applicants are required to meet the language requirements/substitutions stated in the calls for admissions/selection procedures in force when the admission process to Politecnico degree programmes began, regardless of any subsequent amendments to this table.
