Additional PhD positions with their specific details may become available after the publication of this Call and will be published in the above-mentioned table (<https://www.polito.it/en/education/phd-programmes-and-postgraduate-school/admissions-to-phd-programmes/admissions/call-for-applications>).

The updated table will be published and constantly updated exclusively on the above-mentioned website.

The definite number of positions available for each session and each PhD programme will be finalized in the above-mentioned website within 6 days before the date of the oral interview set by the Admissions Committee and published in accordance with the provisions set in art. 9.

2. All PhD positions offered by Politecnico di Torino, which are published exclusively on the website <https://www.polito.it/en/education/phd-programmes-and-postgraduate-school/admissions-to-phd-programmes/admissions/call-for-applications>, are divided into the following categories:

ORDINARY PhD POSITIONS
Fully-funded PhD positions (with scholarship) with own research topic	These fully-funded positions are not associated to a specific research topic. The topic will be decided in agreement with the Coordinator and the Supervisor of the PhD programme. All applicants compete for scholarships with own research topic, unless they explicitly renounce their right to receive them.
Fully-funded PhD positions (with scholarship) with predefined research topic	Applicants who receive an offer for this kind of PhD position are required to compulsorily conduct their research on a predefined research topic, as detailed in the information sheet published on the website. Applicants interested in competing for this type of positions are required to select the research topics following the instructions and deadlines referred to in art. 4, par. 1.
PhD positions offered in apprenticeship format	These positions offer the opportunity to conduct a research activity and get a PhD degree while being simultaneously employed by a company with an apprenticeship contract having the same duration of the PhD programme. Applicants must be aged under 30 years when the company hires them. The apprenticeship contract (stipulated in accordance with Legislative Decree no. 81/2015) is terminated upon completion of the PhD programme and/or degree conferral. Applicants interested in competing for this type of positions are required to follow the procedure referred to in art. 4, par. 1.
PhD positions without scholarships	These positions are not associated to any scholarship. Applicants who wish to undertake a PhD programme without receiving any scholarship are required to follow the procedure referred to in art. 4, par. 2.

RESERVED PhD POSITIONS (ON TOP OF ORDINARY PhD POSITIONS)

PhD positions reserved to recipients of scholarships granted by Governments or by national or foreign public bodies	These positions are offered to the applicants who are recipients of a scholarship funded by a Government or by a national/foreign public body and are declared eligible for admission at the end of the selection process based on the order of the ranking list (see art. 10 par. 8).
PhD positions reserved to the POLITO for REFUGEES project	These positions are reserved to individuals with international protection. Applicants interested in these positions must follow the instructions referred to in Annex 1 .
PhD positions reserved to research fellows	These positions are offered to the applicants who are declared eligible for admission at the end of the selection process following the order of the ranking list (see art. 10 par. 8) and are already holders of a research grant (assegno di ricerca). The number of positions reserved to research fellows is equal to half of the number of ordinary positions for each PhD programme, rounded up to the nearest unit. The topic of the research fellowship and the topic of the PhD thesis must be the same. The Academic Board may give a binding opinion on the compatibility of the two activities. Research fellowships are not compatible with PhD scholarships. Research fellows who are admitted to a PhD programme with a scholarship have two options: a) give up their research fellowship and enrol in the PhD programme with a PhD scholarship; b) keep their research fellowship and enrol in the PhD programme without any PhD scholarship.

3. This Call for applications (40th cycle) is also open to possible applicants selected by special Boards within the framework of specific international mobility programmes in which Politecnico di Torino is involved.

4. Employees of companies/institutions who intend to activate an Executive PhD position pursuant to art. 17, par. 5 of the Regulations for doctoral programmes currently in force must participate in the competition and result eligible for an ordinary PhD position without scholarship. The activation of PhD positions entails signature of a specific agreement between Politecnico and the company/institution, in which its cost will be defined.

Art. 3 – PhD scholarships: nature and amount

1. PhD scholarships last one year and are renewed from year to year provided that PhD candidates have fulfilled the coursework requirements and have been admitted to the next year by the Academic Board. Scholarships are disbursed for a maximum of 36 months, unless otherwise provided by art. 36, par. 2 of the Regulations for doctoral programmes of Politecnico di Torino.

2. The gross annual amount of a PhD scholarship for the A.Y. 2024/25 is € 18.854,52, including social security contributions charged to the scholarship recipient. The net monthly rate is € 1.386 (unless welfare rates change). Scholarship recipients are exempted from paying the local income tax and the personal income tax (IRPEF). The scholarship amount is subject to the deductions of the INPS contributions (Gestione Separata), two thirds of which are charged to Politecnico di Torino and one third is borne by the recipient. The amount of the scholarship will be increased by 50% proportionally to any periods of study and research abroad in accordance with current legislation.

It also includes a budget for research activities available to the PhD candidate, equal to 10% of the total cost of the scholarship, to be used over the 36 months of activity.

3. The following categories of applicants cannot receive any PhD scholarship:

- a) individuals who have already received a scholarship for a PhD programme in Italy;
- b) civil servants who are on special leave but still receive their salary and social security contributions;
- c) research fellows/assegnisti di ricerca (see art. 2, par. 2);
- d) individuals who have a contract of "Alta Formazione e Ricerca" (art. 45 of Legislative Decree no. 81/2015).

Art. 4 – How to accept or decline on offer of admission for a fully-funded PhD position with predefined research topic or for a PhD position offered in apprenticeship format

1. Applicants interested in competing for one or more PhD scholarships with predefined research topic and/or in any PhD positions offered in apprenticeship format must carefully check the research topic and competencies required to carry out the specific research project, illustrated in the information sheet of each scholarship (they can contact the Professor associated with the scholarship, if needed). They are also required to follow the online procedure available on the online application Apply@polito platform (see the following art. 7, par. 1) and select up to a maximum of 5 options starting from 5 days before the beginning of the interviews of the relevant PhD programme and until 12.00 p.m. (noon, CET time) of the day before the interview. It is specified that the starting date of the interviews is set by each Admissions Committee and communicated according to the procedures outlined in the subsequent art. 9.

Applicants who want to compete for a PhD position renouncing to all PhD scholarships (either with predefined research topic or with own research topic) or applicants who do not intend to compete for any PhD position offered in apprenticeship format must explicitly renounce their right to receive them. They are required to follow the on-line procedure available on the online application Apply@polito platform (see art. 7, par. 1) and select the scholarship-waiver option, starting from 5 days before the beginning of the interviews of the relevant PhD programme and up to 12.00 p.m. (noon, CET time) of the day before the interviews. Choices cannot be modified. It is specified that the starting date of the interviews is set by each Admissions Committee and communicated according to the procedures outlined in the subsequent art. 9.

It is understood that, if there are no PhD positions without scholarship, renouncing to all scholarships or PhD positions offered in apprenticeship format will result in application being rejected, with the exception of the PhD positions reserved to research fellows.

Art. 5 – Sessions of the Call

This evaluation is possible only if the documents submitted by the applicant provide all the necessary information (type of degree, duration of the programme, official name of the university which awarded the degree, date of degree conferral, grade etc.). The Board may not admit an applicant to the selection process if the documents do not provide enough information for evaluation.
