Italian language Certificates or exemptions with regard to verification of knowledge of the Italian language at Politecnico di Torino

The following applicants are exempted from submitting an Italian language certificate:

1. Italian citizens residing in Italy, in the Republic of San Marino, or in the Vatican City State;
2. holders of upper secondary school diplomas issued by institutions of the Republic of San Marino.

Further exemptions from submitting an Italian language certificate are provided for applicants who fall under any of the following cases:

- a. the applicant attended at least one school year at a high school in which the medium of instruction is Italian. In this case the school must specify that the medium of instruction is Italian;
- b. the applicant has an Italian qualification (attestato di conclusione della scuola primaria, licenza conclusiva del primo ciclo di istruzione, diploma di maturità or higher qualification);
- c. the applicant has one of the qualifications listed in Annexes 1 and 2 to the "Procedures for entry, residency and enrolment of international students and the respective recognition of qualification for higher education courses in Italy" in compliance with the specifications indicated for each qualification with regard to Italian language requirements;
- d. the applicant has a certificate issued by Embassies, Italian Cultural Institutes, Universities, or Provincial Centres for Adult Education (CPIA), provided that the applicant took a final examination upon completion of the Italian language course/s (simple attendance certificates will not be accepted). The certificate must also state the required CEFR level.

Applicants are required to meet the language requirements/substitutions stated in the calls for admissions/selection procedures in force when the admission process to Politecnico degree programmes began, regardless of any subsequent amendments to this table.
